One-Pager

You will create a One-Pager for your independent reading book _____, by _____.

One-Pager Written Requirements

o   Include the title of the text you're responding to, the author's name and the genre somewhere on the page where the reader will notice it.

o   All Drawings, designs and themes should represent themes, characters, conflict, and/or the setting of text.

o   Include a border. This can include words, pictures, symbols, or quotes from the text. Fill the paper to the edges.

o   Include 2-3 notable quotes, phrases or passages that are important to the understanding of the text. Include quotation marks.

o   Draw/Create/Paste at least 3 images that stand out. These can be 3D images as well.

o   Write 2-3 personal statements or connections about what you have read. These are not simple opinions or book review type statements. (Ex: NOT this: "I can relate to the main character feeling lost, because I've been lost before." But LIKE this: "I can relate to the main character feeling lost in the text because it reminded me of when I got to middle school and didn't know where anything was. I was nervous and afraid to ask for help.") o   Write and answer 1 FAT question. (Use Skinny vs. Fat Question guide on back of paper to help.)

o   Include at least 1 signpost you found and explain why it is important (use bookmark questions and digging deeper on back of paper).

One-Pager Visual Requirements

o   Use a lot of color, patterns, texture, writing styles, photographs, paintings, etc., to illustrate your thoughts and ideas clearly and creatively.

o   Be neat, but your ENTIRE PAGE should be filled, no space should be blank or left in pencil. If you have extra room, repeat any of the above steps/elements.

o   Your full name goes on the BACK of the one-pager.

Your paper should be colorful and meaningful. Here's your chance to go as creative as your mind can wander!

One Pager Exemplars:

Fat vs. Skinny Questions:

Ask "fat" questions! Implicit (Think & Infer)	Do NOT ask Yes/No "Skinny" questions Explicit (X marks the spot)
What if…
How would you feel if you….	Questions that can be answered with a Yes or No or just a few words
What would happen if ,…
Why do you think…..
How did…..
